Counsel,

This afternoon, I started receiving from File and ServeXpress links to several filings in connection with Defendants' motions to seal records and/or filings in connection with the upcoming motion for summary judgment. On review of only one such link and only one paragraph of one exhibit (exhibit G) it became apparent that I was being provided access to both redacted and unredacted versions of exhibits that Defendants are attempting to seal. Upon this discovery, I stopped reviewing any links provided by File and ServeXpress, and will refrain from reviewing or accessing the links until the matter can be resolved. I did not share the links with my client The New York Times Company.

I am ccing one plaintiff's counsel as I do not have access to the emails of any others.

Please let me know if there is anything further you would like me to do.

Regards,

Duffy Carolan
